

TRENDS FEATURE

Clockwise, from top left:
 Okia's lace patterning, produced using patented
 HDA™ Technology; Chopard VCH072S from De Rigo
 Vision; Tiffany Victoria (model TF 2044B) by Luxottica

Classic decorations are still very much appreciated by the older age groups. Examples from Chopard and Tiffany Eyewear show how precious stones and sparkling crystals create frames of great elegance and sophistication, with decorations that are sought after in the same way as fine jewellery. Chopard currently offers designs featuring tiny rhinestones or pearls. Meanwhile the Tiffany models boast marquise-cut diamonds and crystals for a luxurious, truly ornate look suitable for formal wear. And for those who can't make up their mind, the interchangeable temple systems remain a perfect opportunity! Examples such as those by French label Dilem, offer lavish designs and colour combinations designed to be swapped in and out to match the wearer's mood and a variety of different outfits.

SEPTEMBER 2011