Okia Presents Paisley

mivision | 1 December 2011

Okia has made a loud comeback with its new eccentric Paisley collection - perfect for those looking for something that is unconventional and unavoidably eye-catching.

The company says the bright patterns and gradient colours are spread over the frame using patented High Definition Acetate technology. That's combined with a special process that allows ultra-sharp cutting for all decorations along the length of the temples, giving them a strong metallic touch.
